MRS. LANE GETS

Long Island City Fire Chief

Justice Gaynor, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, to-day confirmed a verdict judges were James F. Riggs, D. D., J. Ritchie Smith and Prof. Theodore W. Transit Railroad Company for the death of her husband, D. W. Lane, who was Chief of the Long Island City Fire Department. Lame was killed in a collision between his buggy and a trolley car on Aug. 16 of last year. Five months ago a jury returned a verdict in the widow's favor for $25,000.

At the time of the trial it was brought out that Lane was driving with a woman. Her identity was not known and she did not appear at the trial. The railroad company learned, however, that she was Mrs. Margaret Louise Hinchley, of Mount Pleasant, Westchester. She made an affidavit for the company to the effect that she was driving the horse when the accident occurred and that Lane was not paying attention to

Can Be Cured; IS Cured Of all the diseases that afflict mankind none is so deadly as BLOOD POISON, which destroys both body and mind. It is the scourge, the pestilence, the curse of civilization and of the savage. It has caused more misery, more anguish, more agony than all other diseases combined. Why? Because there was no cure for it. True, doctors used mercury and potash to relieve the disease, to hold it in check, but the fatal day was only postponed for a few years, until the patient would be attacked with tumor on the brain, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, consumption or some other equally deadly disease.
